

CEO of Dundarave Resources Inc. He was previously a director, CEO and president of Energy Metals Corp. and Odyssey Resources Ltd. Mercer is a geological consultant who has worked with Mattagami Lake Mines, Noranda and then Falconbridge. He worked for Mattagami and Noranda in exploration managerial positions in Western Canada. For Noranda, he was director – Latin America exploration, director – international exploration, then chief geologist. After the merger of Noranda and Falconbridge, Mercer became director, geology and geochemistry, for Falconbridge. Mercer retired from the company in 2006. Schmeling has been an independent Uranium exploration and mining consultant since 1996. Wallis was most recently general manager of the Vancouver office of Scott Wilson Roscoe Postle Associates Inc. Prior to that, Wallis worked internationally for a number of consulting companies involved in due diligence, project evaluations and feasibility studies.

Michael Berry has joined the advisory board of Dejour Enterprises Ltd. to consult on financial affairs. Berry is a pioneer in the emerging field of “discovery investing” – investing in companies that focus on discovering natural resources or developing new medical and high technology. Previously, Berry managed small- and mid-cap value funds for Heartland Advisors and Kemper Scudder. Berry was a professor of investments at the Darden School, University of Virginia, and has held the Wheat First Endowed Chair at James Madison University.

Thomas Kilbey has been named senior geologist of Romarco Minerals Inc. Prior to Romarco, Kilbey was district geologist since 2001 for Newcrest Resources Inc.

Damien Reynolds has joined the board of Macarthur Minerals Ltd. He is chair and CEO of Longview Capital Partners Inc., which owns 17 per cent of Macarthur Minerals’ common shares. Reynolds is also the chair and CEO of Buffalo Gold Ltd. and the chair of Bayswater Uranium Corp.

Maurice Strong and Jeffrey Pontius have joined the board of Wealth Minerals Ltd. Strong is currently chair of the Cosmos International Group; vice-chair of the Chicago Climate Exchange; chair, international advisory board, for CH2M HILL Companies; as well as an honorary professor at Peking University in Beijing and a visiting professor at the University of Ottawa. Strong has previously been the under secretary general and special advisor to the secretary general of the United Nations; senior advisor to the president, World Bank; chair and CEO of Ontario Hydro and a member of the international advisory board of Toyota Motor Corp. Pontius was previously at AngloGold Ashanti (USA) Exploration Inc. starting as senior U.S. exploration manager and becoming North American exploration manager and also a director. Pontius then left AngloGold to become the president and CEO of International Tower Hill Mines Ltd.

■ Technology

James Latham has shifted from vice-president of marketing to a marketing strategy consultant at ACD Systems International Inc. The need for Latham’s full-time commitment to marketing leadership changed as the company evolved.

Scott Bulmer has been appointed director, product development, for Top Producer Systems. He was most recently director, software development, for Pivotal Corp. and had been with its predecessor company CDC Software since 1996. Prior to his most recent position, he was a senior software development manager and a software development manager for the company.

Companies on the Move

■ Who’s growing

Law firms Fasken Martineau DuMoulin LLP and London, U.K.-based Stringer Saul LLP announced recently they have agreed to merge to create the first full-service integrated Canadian-U.K. law firm.

The merger will position the London office of the combined firm as the largest legal office in the U.K. with full access to Canadian resources, support and client base and will expand the global partnership to almost 650 lawyers in Vancouver, Calgary, Toronto, New York, Montreal, Quebec